Ready-made Resolutions for Almost Anybody

FOR DADS: Never say “when I was your age” to your son unless requested to.

FOR MOMS: Never say “slaving over a hot stove.” Substitute “up to my elbows in the freezer.”

FOR CLUB MEMBERS: Don’t criticize the work of another member unless you’re ready to take over the job.

FOR MUSIC LOVERS: Put all the records back in their proper holders as soon as you have finished playing them. (This is for people who are challenged by the impossible)

FOR BOOK LOVERS: If you must underline passages in the books you read, buy your own, don’t do it to library books.

FOR PARENTS: See what YOU can do to get Physical Education put into the curriculum of the lower grades.

FOR HOUSEWIVES: THROW OR GIVE AWAY everything in the house that hasn’t been used for one year. (Could go a long way toward Spring Cleaning)

FOR STOW POLICEMEN: Just keep up what you’re doing — a good job.

FOR NEW COUNCILMEN (AND OLD): Do unto Stow as you would unto your own family. “People always make mistakes if they do not see that their whole significance must consist in their contribution to the lives of others.” (Alfred Adler)

FOR THE KIDS: Try to be patient with your poor old parents — it’s been a long time since they had your problems, if they ever did!

FOR STOW RESIDENTS: “Buy it in Stow”. If you can’t find it here, tell the Stow Press.

FOR THE STOW PRESS: KEEP UP WITH STOW!

MORGAN OPTIMISTIC ABOUT 60’S GROWTH

A healthy business climate with increased employment in 1960 was predicted today by Burton D. Morgan, president of Stow’s newest industry, Morgan Adhesives Co.

Morgan, who started the manufacture of self-adhesive labels for a wide variety of products six months ago, said he expects the printing and labeling industry in general to increase some 20% in volume over the next year.

Citing national economists who forecast an employment rise of about five percent, Morgan said: “We expect to hire more workers in the near future. Our plant now has 40 employees.

The 24,000 square foot Morgan plant at 4569 Darrow Road was completed in July, 1959, at a cost of some $300,000. It is on a 20-acre site in Stow’s new industrial park, the first plant in that development.

“We have broken the ice in Stow’s industrial park although the site is in strong competition with other similar developments in this area,” Morgan said.

The company is a subsidiary of the Bemis Bros. Bag Co. of Boston, one of the leading national manufacturers of packaging materials, including plastic, paper and cloth bags.

Morgan Adhesives’ product is based on the use of self-sticking labels on much merchandise.

Mailbox Is Flat As Feet

A mailman’s wife should be pretty sympathetic with her husband’s life around the holidays. Have a pan of warm water ready for his aching feet when he comes home — get her own cards in the mail early, etc.

Maybe Mrs. Bryan Bailey, wife of the local mail carrier, of 196 Game Dr., Monroe Falls, does feel all this sympathy — we don’t know. What we do know is that she almost rolled on the floor with helpless laughter when a friend backed off-center out of the Bailey’s driveway knocking their mailbox flat. Maybe she had visions of all mailboxes being annihilated in the same fashion.

Or maybe it was because the driver of the destructive car, who shall remain nameless, also was the wife of a mailman.

Hudsons Jet to Puerto Rico

In the winter, northerners’ fancies lightly turn to more temperate climes — particularly Puerto Rico in the case of the Richard Hudsone, 3482 Edgewood Dr.

They were among the 20 Temple couples from the Akron area who turbo-jetted out of Cleveland airport at 11:35 a.m. on a mid-October day, and checked into La Concha Hotel.

Everyone who saw it in still talking about the “Living Christmas Tree” program put on at Community Church just before Christmas. It was directed by Mrs. Arthur Yoder, and performed entirely by 60 children.

Each child wore or carried specially treated pine boughs, which, when lighted by “black light” showed only a luminous glow in the shape of the traditional tree.

The tree swayed in rhythm with familiar seasonal music, and had the audience gasping with awe when a luminous giant paper chain made its way around and over the boughs during “Deck The Halls with Boughs of Holly.”

During the number “Drummer Boy”, only the drumsticks could be seen.

STO-KENT LANES

A surprise reception was held for Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Pratt, 71 E. Mapledale, Akron, by their daughter, Mrs. Richard Pratt, 4225 Fish Creek Rd., in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary.

There were some 200 guests present at First Christian Church's Fellowship Hall between 2 and 4 p.m. on Sunday, December 27, including many out-of-towners from Columbus, Willard, Hiram, Cleveland and Kent.

Three close friends of Mrs. Pratt's, Mrs. Joe Perry, Mrs. Kenneth J. Shuman, and Mrs. Alex Paoloni, assisted with pounting and serving.

Decorations were by Neugebauer.

The Co-Op Market in Stow Plaza had to get along without its manager from noon on, on Christmas Eve. Jay Schiffbauer has been busy moving his parents' house in Hopwood, Pa. for a family Christmas. Back on the job early Monday, however.

When asked how she planned to spend New Year's Day, Katherine Zappa proclaimed she intends to stay in bed all day! Smarter, Katy? Can't be tired, can you?

Mr. and Mrs. Owen M. Oak, 68 Sprout Dr., M.P., are busy, busy, busy, now that he's leased the Gulf Service Station at 3246 Kent Rd. He was formerly with Goodyear Aircraft, while she has been very active in Monroe Falls Garden Club and the Akron Boat Club.

"The Jonah Jones" records will be spinning, tonight, New Year's Eve, in the Norman Russell's recreation room at 3604 Adaline Drive when friends gather to "ring out the old."

A baby girl (7 lb. 9 oz.) joined the family of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Bianco, of 3050 Silverview Drive, Silver Lake... on Sunday night, December 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard P. Tyler have moved from their Elm Road home to a new one in Brecksville. Before they left, Mrs. Jack Marhofer had a afternoon gathering of neighborhood friends to say farewell to Mrs. Tyler and her mother, Mrs. T. Tarsalia.

The K. P. Denholms of Elm Road tried a warm Christmas in Florida this year.

Charlotte DuChene, 3815 Hill Rd. took sort of a busman's holiday over the last week. Last Sunday night she entertained her Sunday School Class of 12 three-year-olds at a spaghetti dinner. Then on Monday night, she hosted the holiday party for employees of Prudy's Coffee Shop at her home. We say "busman's holiday" because Charlotte spends her working hours cooking at Prudy's!

Mrs. Veda Adams has been in Louisville, Ky., visiting a friend for the week after the hectic rush in her floral business before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Pratt (l.) greet good friend Mrs. Ray Anderson of Warren, Pa., at their surprise reception. Mrs. Joseph Perry, of Stow, watches the reunion from the background.

The Wayne Bowens of Echo Rd. and the Harold Pines, of Streetsborough Rd., Hudson, sent their Christmas packages off early to their daughter and son, Lois and Bill Pines in Goldsboro, N. Carolina, where he is a master sergeant with the Air Force.

 Plenty of packages, enough for two sets of grandparents to make a good showing with three grandchildren. And they arrived on time.

But the young Pines pulled a surprise on their parents—piled all the gifts and children in the car and brought them back unopened so they could all celebrate Christmas together.

Mrs. Bowen says she'll take a surprise like that gladly any time, but especially at Christmas!

Kroger employees parted after work the Saturday before Christmas. Wives, husbands, and dates joined the group at the "Reed" Room at Bio-Kent Lanes for an 11 p.m. steak dinner, a little bowling till the wee hours for Gene Pason, manager, claims the only thing wrong with the whole party was that it isn't repeated weekly!

Christmas and New Year’s Days have always been times of joy and gladness. When I was a boy, neither day was celebrated so expensively as now, but just as happily.

Christmas was and is, for sober thinking people, the Birthday of a King. We celebrate it religiously, or should.

New Year is Pagan. The old year with all its silly mistakes, is dead. We are glad to be rid of it. So on New Year’s Eve, we give the Old Thing a proper send-off with a lot of noise, and some of us get drunk and make fools of ourselves. I can think of no more senseless thing than to get drunk.

On New Year’s morning in the good old days here in Stow, we kids used to sneak downstairs to be the first to say “Happy New Year!”, and we went around to the near neighbors with the same cheerful greeting.

Another ancient custom has been mostly discarded: Open House was held by all of the “proper” folks in town. A nice lunch was set out, and a hospitable drink offered. If you belonged to the church, the drink was cider (properly hardened) or tea. It was a pleasant ceremony and should be revived instead, in this temperate town, of cocktails. Punch must take the place of that good cider. No seed.

Here’s a story that applies to the season:

A slightly inebriated man riding on a train from Philadelphia to Wilmington, asked the conductor, “How far ish Philadelphus from Wilmington, Delawar?”

The conductor told him, “90 miles.”

When the conductor came back, the man said, “Please tell me how far it ish from Wil¬mingh, Delawar, to Philadelphia Pa.”

The conductor said, “I just told you. 90 miles!”

“Not nessesary, not nes¬hesary,” said the inebriated one. “It is seven days from Christmas to New Years’, but lesh more from New Year’s to Christmas!”

San Juan, at 10 p.m. that night.

The trip was a gift from Dick’s mother, who attached only one string to it—that they write every day so she could keep up with them via the mail.

Tadmor Temple Golden Fes Trip was the official name for their vacation. Dick was appointed Captain of the Guard on Dec. 5 by Potentate Knoch. Companions were all members of the same shrine.

Ellen (Mrs. Hudson) says there were so many highlights to their stay it’s impossible to single them out. The sight of native women washing clothes at water’s edge, then carrying them on their heads, was a pic¬ture come to life. A native dinner, including a whole roast pig—being entertained by the original steel band—sitting a cock fight.

Juan Cereñellas, who had just set a world championship record by landing a 512 lb. blue marlin on 50 lb. test line.

Another is sailing to Ponce with the Akron shriners to be guests at a lodge meeting conducted all in Spanish. Still another is the trip to the Rain Forest, conservation bamboo for.

Anyone can see that Ellen Hud¬son (L.) and Mrs. “Mike” Boyd of Hudson, O., enjoyed them¬selves.

Karl Knoch, Potentate of Tadmor Temple (L) and Dick Hudson on the beach at San Juan.

We want to keep the精品 magazne minimum wage in Puerto Rico about 5.46 an hour.

“A heavenly place, “Ellen says of Puerto Rico. “No bugs! Really, not enough bugs to support birds!”

Perfect weather, with tempera¬tures averaging 85 to 90, an occasional light rainfall, poin¬settias and Hibiscus plants growing in wild abundance, afternoon siestas, and a half-pineapple, freshly j icked, for breakfast—no wonder the Hudsons are ready for a return visit to Puerto Rico any time now!

What a wonderful, glorious Christmas! Everyone is bubbling over with excitement from parties, open houses, and carol singers. Once again we woke Christmas morning to find brilliantly wrapped packages tied with delicate bows, and on that little tag hidden beneath the ribbon we found our own name. Then came the happy feeling when you discovered the surprise within the package.

I wonder what Pixie Henning will create with her new set of oil paints. Jackie Homer will probably get her homework done now that she has a new desk. Norma and Bill Nickol won't have an excuse for being late to classes—they both got watches from Santa. Linda Reed is hoping for cold weather so she can show off her new car coat. She isn't the only one hoping for snow; my family is more than anxious to try our new toboggan. John Miller doesn't care if it is time to play with his new table tennis set. Sandy Bender is waiting for an invitation to a number party so she can use some of her Christmas luggage.

I feel sorry for the poor teachers. The last week of school they received lots of Christmas gifts, but I don't think they were the kind they appreciate. For Mrs. Kaufman the gifts consisted of two-thousand word themes on subjects ranging from sports cars to autobiographies. She also got about ninety book reports to grade. Miss Fry received all sorts of projects. Some students made Elizabethan stages while others dressed dolls in fifteenth century costumes. The book reports turned in to Miss Fry were in the interesting form of a book jacket. On the cover the ambitious students drew pictures or illustrations and the reports were on the inside flap.

Lucky Mrs. Anderson got away from all the school business. She and Mr. Anderson and their daughter Linda spent Christmas in Berkeley, California with their oldest daughter Carol. They hope to stop in Los Angeles and see the Rose Parade, then come back through Arizona and New Mexico.

Well tonight is Bernie Czar- locked’s party and probably a lot of others. I know everyone will have a lot of fun seeing the New Year.

Happy New Year!

3. How often must a lane be re-finished?
4. How many holes should a bowling ball have?

6. What's the size of the triangle where pins sit?
7. What are pins made of?

Z.M. BAER PLAYS SANTA

To: Z. M. Baer:
Chuck Baer:
As I know you have a shop, will you help me, as I have so many things to do.

Marilyn Orcutt wants a baby bed and Hutch cupboard.
Hoping you can help me,
I am
Santa Claus.
(Mr. Baer’s granddaughter’s name just happens to be Marilyn Orcutt.)

Bo, Z. M. Baer, a retired test driver from Goodyear, with the help of his son Chuck, went to work on some solid maple, and they came up with the Hutch cupboard and cradle shown in the picture. About 40 hours of work were involved, and no nails were used.

Lucky Santa, that Mr. Baer has carpentry for his hobby, and lucky Marilyn, that Santa knew where to write!
