Springs thawed and water flowed from crusty ice. Spring blooms pushed through the mud. Baseball diamonds sprouted ball games. Children spilled from homes where one didn't know there were children. And the children shed winter coats for jackets. Overnight... Spring came to Stow.

APRIL IS CANCER CRUSADE MONTH

The Summit County Unit of the American Cancer Society and its unit president Attorney James Cross, said that the Cancer Society's Crusade in Summit County would be climax'd on Tuesday night April 28th, with a door-to-door fund solicitation.

Just in the last year or two Cross says the American public has become more aware than ever in history, of the striking power of the nation's Number 2 killer. Doctors now say that figures prove that one of every four living Americans will contract some form of cancer during his lifetime, and that nearly all these can be saved if they seek medical help soon enough.

Volunteers in Stow will be named in the next week or 10 days.

STOWIANS DONATE FOR BLOODMOBILE

Mrs. George Westerman, general chairman of the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to Stow Tuesday, March 29, reports the total pints donated by Stow residents totaled 96.

Broken down, the figures tell this story: 148 persons who had made appointments to donate, only 102 persons came, only 14 of whom took the trouble to telephone cancellations.

There were 36 persons who were willing to donate, but were deferred for various health reasons. 32 residents, without appointments, were welcomed to the Youth Center as "walk-ins". First time donors numbered 27, and 37 donors gave their pints of blood for a specific person in need of blood to speed recovery.

Mrs. Westerman and her committee wish to thank everyone who volunteered services or blood for Blood Donor Day.

When a job is done wisely and well... when a man has an inspired interest which is also of prime interest to a community, and when that man combines inspiration with a large percentage of perspiration, the man himself is of interest.

Such a man is Police Chief Robert Woodard, head of Stow's Police Department.

Juvenile are the chief's main interest although his current duties compel him into other fields of public protection. Chief Woodard's ideas for future curtailment of juvenile delinquency have filtered into the processing of the law by other members of Stow Police. Thus... the explanation for the unbelievable record of progress of combating delinquency that has taken place in Stow in just 2 years.

"What is your primary police interest?" your reporter asked the Chief.

"Juvenile," the Chief answered tersely.

"What aspect of juvenile delinquency?"

"Not delinquency! Juvenile!" Only when the perspective remains in focus does the idea remain clear. Delinquency is not the whole picture of juveniles. Chief Woodard resides with his wife, Norma, at 3537 Orchard Drive, along with his step sons; Gary Lee, aged 13, and Ray Dale Headrick, aged 16.

"Shall I state that these sons are your step sons?", this reporter asked.

"Why shouldn't you? They are my step sons and I'm proud of this, but prouder still of them!" was the quick exclamation from the Chief.

The Woodards enjoy bowling, hunting and fishing.

Every major and minor detail that concerns Stow Community is noted by the Chief via statistics, because he is a statistician. Percentages and charts mean a great deal to him. One glance at any one of the many mathematical sheets which he keeps, determines that progress for protection has taken rapid strides in Stow under his leadership.

From some of the statistics that concern the private life of the Chief, one glean's that upon various dates: he served on a 3-man Deputy Sheriff's office for the Township of Stow; that he served on a round-the-clock-patrol; that he served as a patrolman after carrying a 'special'st' badge; that in the space of just three months he rose from sergeant to Police Chief.

Sometimes the facts and figures and dates are not as important as the resultant end of this form of math. The end for Stow is that the Chief is a conscientious civic employee, who is cognizant of his duties, and fully conscious of what he is doing about them and what he will do about them.

If I were doing a character sketch, I would write that the Chief is a man's man, which is an old cliche, but true. He possesses the deep rooted sense of humor that only those born in the very deep South possess. Once in a while he detects the pleasant influence of such a background by the soft slurring sounds of his speech.

Yes... he was born in Cullman, Alabama, a small agricultural town, which is quite a distance... and not just by the way the crow flies... to Police Chief in our busy mid-western village.

Stow Board of Zoning Appeals — March 28, 1960

Two appeals were granted by the Board at their last meeting — one from Robert Beckley to build a house at 3524 Edgewood Rd. on a lot with a non-conforming sideline.

Nursing Home to be Established

The other appeal granted was from Kay Logan, L.P.N., to establish a nursing home for aged and infirm men and women at 4770 Darrow Rd., where Zoro’s Antique Shop is now located.

Mrs. Logan now operates a similar home on Cuyahoga Falls Blvd. in Akron, at the foot of the expressway. She intends to keep that home also, complete with its present staff.

The new nursing home will accommodate up to 40 patients. Mrs. Logan plans to add a new modern wing to the establishment in the next two years. She will take possession of the Darrow Road property about May 1.

Stow Planning Commission
March 28, 1960

Main business before the Planning Commission at this meeting involved the area of homes in the newly planned district zoning. The Commission will recommend the following minimum areas: In R-1 Districts, formerly requiring 1152 square feet, houses will be at least 1200 sq. ft. After special compliance, the former minimum of 1200 sq. ft. will be 1400 sq. ft. In R-2 District Minimum remains unchanged.

The Commission does not wish in any way to discourage additions to present homes. They wish it made clear that anyone desiring to build an addition will not have to make that addition larger than he wishes in order to bring his home up to the new minimum area. The above figures apply only to new housing as yet unbulit in Stow.

Is The Answer To Your School Question Here?

This column will be used weekly for questions from the public concerning any phase of public education. The answers will be provided by the newly formed Citizens Committee for Education. You are encouraged to send questions to The Stow Press, unsigned, if you prefer. The Press will turn them over, without signatures in any case, to the Committee.

In last week’s question and answer column, in the third answer, a typographical error was made in one of the numbers. Anxious readers must have known the figures didn’t make sense as they stood; however there was no way of knowing just what figure was wrong, or of getting in which direction the error lay. Correctly, we should have said: “At the lower elementary levels, the three buildings together have a capacity of 1770, but there will be in excess of 1900 in September, 1960. By September, 1961, the earliest date a new building could be ready. If voted on in May, 1960, the elementary enrollment will be 2100, some 330 above capacity.”

The Stow Press sincerely apologizes for any confusion or misinterpretation which may have arisen from last week’s error.

Question: Why don’t we wait for the Tri-County Planning Commission to tell us where to put our schools?

Answer: Mr. Bobotek, planner for the Tri-County Planning Commission has asked the Board of Education to inform the Commission where the Board of Education expects to put schools, how big they are to be, how much land they need, etc., and then expects to plan roads and zoning around these units.

Question: Why don’t we build a new high school?

Answer: In the long range planning for the Stow schools, another high school is certainly included. We cannot build a new high school now for several reasons.

1. There is not enough money available to build a complete high school because it would require $1,000,000 additional construction to the $360,000 Lakeview building to make a high school of the size needed now. There is only $630,000 possible to vote now for school construction.

2. Lack of sufficient rooms to hold the 1 to 6 elementary enrollment is more pressing in the coming two years than rooms to hold the 7 to 12 enrollment, since elementary enrollment is still growing faster than high school enrollment.

3. The question might be interpreted to mean “When are we going to have a new high school?” and could be answered in two ways.

a) A new high school annex was built 8 years ago and was thought at that time to be ample for many years to come.

b) A new high school or junior high school will be built as soon as it is possible financially and within the classroom needs of the district.

To Take Place April 8

Penny Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, Jr., 2165 Graham Rd., will be married to William R. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Russell Gray, 2522 Williamson Rd., in an informal ceremony performed by Reverend Theodore Cord, Friday, April 8, at First Christian Church of Stow.

Music will begin at 6:45 p.m., and the ceremony at 7. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will hold an informal reception at their home following the wedding.

On the evening of April 7, before the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Gray will entertain the wedding party in their home.

Matron of Honor will be Mrs. George Jackson III, and Miss Janet Taylor will be the bridesmaid. Ushers will be George Jackson III, William Benjamin and Wayne Brewer, while Donald Gray, brother of the bridegroom-to-be, will serve as best man.

The betrothed couple are both 1957 graduates of Stow High School. Penny is a third-grade teacher at Shamak Elementary School in Akron; William is a senior at Kent State University where he is also employed on the campus.

The couple plans to make their home at 178 Gale St. in Akron.

James P. Moffitt, 3517 Oak Rd., is undergoing treatment at St. Thomas Hospital, and can receive visitors.

March 30 was moving day for Nan Bentley 3747 North View Dr. Her new address will be 19336 Westland Rd., Detroit 19, Michigan.

Miss Penny Jackson, third grade teacher at Shamak Elementary School, Akron, will wed Kent State U senior, William Gray.

Don Gambol took on double responsibility recently. He'd had the new Shell service station next to Sto-Ken Golf Range only a month, when he also took a wife.

Miss Grace Riegler, of Akron, became Don's bride on Saturday, March 28, at the Arlington Street Church. They plan to move to Stow in the near future.

An April Fool Story Just a Few Days Later

John Nanashe, 2555 F. Graham Rd., has a special regard for April Fools Day. Here's what he says about it:

"I had successfully predicted the sex of my three children. A few years ago we were preparing a welcome for our fourth. Confidently, I placed friendly wagers here and there that the newcomer would be a boy. April Fool's Day came along and so did our new baby...April 1, 1960.

"Looking back, I think it's perfectly logical that if I predicted a son and if his birthday was to be April first, the new baby had to be a girl. The baby's name? Mary Evelyn Nanashe. "I paid off the bets but I think I won anyway!"

Homemade soap? My mother was very proud of her soap and used it for many years. The essential ingredients are fat, scraps and lye. The scraps were collected for some time. Lye - chloride of potassium - was obtained by leaching wood ashes. The fuel was mostly wood. The ashes were stored in the smokehouse. Then on a nice spring day, the barrel was put on a bench a foot or more off the ground. This is high enough for a container under it to catch the lye.

We set the barrel into a circular plate with a rim and a snout in front. Water poured on top soaked its way to the bottom and drained into the dish below. The lye was hot stuff! An active caustic, as you found out if you got your finger into it.

That made laundry-soft-soap. I cannot remember when we did not have some nice bought toilet soap.

When the bed clothes were hung out the windows in the morning to air them out, Molasses Taffy? Ask Oakley. Spat about making it! Did you ever feed a dog a piece of it? Make you laugh!

Tallow candles? It took some skill to pour the hot tallow around the wicks in the molds. Grandma Stow made a dozen candles in hers. I gave the mold to a nice girl cousin who had asked for a memento of Aunt Almira and Massie. She - Bertha Stow Niswander - was then living on a big ranch near Greeley, Colo. Has anyone in Stow a candle mold?

The twisted paper lighters that were kept in a holder on a shelf in the sitting room? The last one I ever saw, Grace Moore used in the Edwin Wetmore, Sr., house on the Kent-Cuyahoga Falls Rd. Mrs. Arthur Moore now (1960) lives there.

Shirt sleeves? How many are left in Stow? Ira Palmer has the W. W. Wetmore one. You were cozy and warm with a nice girl on the

WIVES ORGANIZE

As a new chapter of Jay Cee has been formed in Stow, it follows "as the night the day" there will also be a chapter of Jay Cee Wives.

Sure enough, they're having an organizational meeting Wednesday, April 11, in the hose of the Danley Schmidts, 3413 Marsh Road, at 8 p.m., and enthusiasm is rampart.

Mrs. Richard Phillips, wife of Stow Jay Cee president, has been acting telephone chairman, notifying the wives of the meeting.

Mrs. Eugene Allen of Cuya¬hoga Falls will be present to help the new group get started.

Terry Talks of High

by Terry McIntyre

Through the hard work and the generosity of the Student Council, the Band Parents, and the Glee Club members, the Music Department have been able to purchase a beautiful Everett Piano, which is to be used only in the auditorium.

The piano made its debut, so to speak, Friday, April 6, when the Kent State A Cappello Choir gave a small concert for the high school students. They sang fine choral music and everyone was delighted with them, but the biggest surprise was that we were able to pick four out of our alumni: Laura Roberts, Marcheta McCrady, Gretchen Melanas, and Poole.

Speaking of alumni, this week has brought several back to Stow High. Bob Schoen and Patty Coon were back from Wooster, Jim Smedlick was back from Case, and Denny Peterson came all the way from the University, which is in North Caro¬lina.

Last week three history and three government classes took part in a national poll of high school students and one who holds the elect as the next president. Well, if the election runs true to Stow, Nixon will be our next president, Nixon won with 86 votes, Kennedy had 36, Stevenson had 10, Johnson had 6, Symington had 3, and Humphrey had 1 vote.

The Junior Class play is well under way now. It is "The Able Muffin" and it sounds real cute. Elionor Prescott or Mama, who rules the roost, is played by Mary Ann Flaherty. Her timid husband, Leaper Parsons, is played by Jim Wilson. Sue Stimm will take the part of their very spoiled daughter, Cheryl. Larry Kerr is Petey Prescott, who can think of nothing but hyp¬notism. Mary Jo Jennings, Little¬ter's niece, will be played by Connie Hall. Terry Moore will take the part of Mamie Magan, the dumb maid. Gussie Smoot, a nosy neighbor, will be Nancy Reusch. Jed Lawford, who is terribly in love with Cheryl is Terry Franz. The aristocratic Opal Oat Ostade will be Nancy Noll and her darling boy, Alfie, is Bob Pfile. Mrs. Plisby Livermore, the cranky boarder, is Judy Cross. The rich, eccentric Aunt Molly Cain will be Teresa Kraus. Izzy Finkenstein will be played by Jim Pardee and Mike Pile. Stow will be played by Carol Wolfe. The line coaches are: Carol Stanland, Linda Wetmore, Dorothy Johnson, and Norma Lutz. Director is Mr. Thompson and Assis¬tant Director is Dawne Butler.

Rubinstein Played By Pianist
At Initial Public Performance
by Kathy Martin

Richard C. Faunce, 3961 Osage, performed brilliantly when playing Rubinstein's Fourth Piano Concerto in D Minor with the Akron University Orchestra Sunday afternoon, March 27, at the Firestone Conservatory Auditorium in Akron.

This was a first time performance with an orchestra for this laboratory technician who works with synthetic rubber at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Now pianist for the First United Presbyterian Church of Stow, Faunce grew up in Cleveland. His wife Sandra is from Rochester, N. Y. They have a 4-year-old son and a 16-year-old daughter.

Faunce has three years more to study before receiving his music degree at Akron U., and hopes to further his study for a masters degree at Kent State University. His mother, an accomplished pianist, furnished much early encouragement when piano lessons were begun at the age of 8. The first real musical Impression was made on him at 11, when, during the Cleveland opera season, his mother took him to see "The Magic Flute."

After graduating from Longy School of Music in Cambridge, Mass., Faunce was called to the U. S. Army, where he served three years in Army Security.

Faunce enjoys being a father, and gives his two youngsters an opportunity to know him well by romping with them before their bedtime. Then, after they are tucked in, he goes down to the business of practicing which usually consumes up to two hours each evening.

Richard Faunce, Goodyear technician, relaxes after piano performance at Firestone Conservatory.

In 1959, while studying piano at Akron U., his teacher encouraged him to enter the Akron Tuesday Musical Club competition. It was a great surprise to be informed that his accomplished playing of several Shuman Symphonic Etudes, he had won $500, which has helped further his musical training.

Everyone has an idol - someone to pattern after - and Faunce's is Artur Rubinstein, whom he considers the greatest living pianist, laboratory technician and music student. Richard Faunce hopes someday to find a future in the musical world.
