GRAY'S EASTER MIRACLE

by Peg Knight

"A miracle I'd never have believed if I hadn't seen it with my own eyes." That's what Pat Gray says about the recovery of her husband, Bud (Eust), from a recent illness that the doctors warned her would result in his death.

Bud has a powerful message filled with humility and wonder that they are still together, and that he is not only alive, but perfectly well.

A few weeks ago, Bud, an eleventh-hour standing on a work site at a building, fell from where a ladder a carpenter was hammering above his head. The hammer from the carpenter's hand, landing on Bud's head with terrific impact.

"I saw stars for an hour," Bud says.

Serious headaches for a week resulted, but otherwise Bud felt all right, and was sure they'd wear off. The second week, he began to lose his equilibrium. He easily lost his balance, and his hands began to shake so that he couldn't normally bring me coffee from. Finally, he made an appointment to see a doctor.

But the day of the appointment, an emergency call came for him to do a special job at South Arлинghun Catholic Church, so he cancelled the appointment and went to work.

Bud's friend, contractor Bill Kaufman, stopped in to see how he was coming along. He found Bud unconscious, seemingly strange, as though he had had an attack. Kaufman said if he'd come a few moments later, Bud might have died right then.

Kaufman rushed Bud to the hospital, where it was considered he must have a blood clot on the brain from the hammer blow. Pat was called from her job at James Haven High School. It was no emergency operation was set for 8 a.m. If a report from the hospital lab had been not reported by another minute, the operation would have been performed. But the report showed no blood clot. In fact, it showed an infection of the brain - an operation would have been useless and might have hastened unnecessary consequences. Bud had encephalitis.

Pat was told what a terrible disease her husband had. She was warned that recovery was rare, and that inevitably, if patients did recover from it, they were left with brain damage. Bud said he'd live better this way. He might be unbalanced. He might have St. Vitus dance. He might be blind or paralyzed, but he very likely would not live.

Bud's temperature shot up to 103 and stayed there. His face became unrecognizably swollen and fiery red. His breathing was noisy and rapid, and his temperature was too fast to count. He was still unconscious - in a very deep coma.

Heavy doses of antibiotics were administered, with no results. Ice baths were tried. Doctors and nurses were working around the clock to get him to live. But in fact, he was doing nothing at all. His temperature continued to rise to 106. On the end of the second day, they told Pat they had done everything they knew how to do, and "It was just a matter of time.

"But Bud's parents and brother and Pat hasted his bedside. They prayed, as they waited for the expected end.

Then Bud's mother said to Pat, "You know, Bud's never been baptized."

Pat hadn't known. She'd taken for granted that he had been. It was late at night, but his doctor's words still in her ears, that he probably wouldn't last out the night. She decided she didn't matter what time it was.

She called the minister.

At 1 a.m., the minister of the Stow church and Bud and their two children attended, an administration for a small container of water. He said the Lord's Prayer over Bud's head and performed a simple baptism ceremony. Then, having done all he could, he left.

"He didn't have to have left the hospital," Pat said, "because I could see a shadow moving on Bud. The swelling in his face started to subside. The redness started to fade. His hand gradually stopped that terrible panting. Before a half hour had passed, he looked normal. He was facing his mother, on the opposite side of the bed from where I was standing. Suddenly he opened his eyes and quietly said "Hi, Mama.""

"There was no Lord's Prayer or way he could know that his father and brother were there, or that I was there. I have seen him speak before without turning his head." His temperature was normal by morning.

Bud, a few short weeks ago given up as dying, has since been in perfect health, with not one sign of his terrible illness. Seven doctors have seen him and marveled. They advise him not to work for another couple of weeks, but to rest from his ordeal, but say "This man has no effects whatever." His own physician, when checking him, said "It's impossible for you to be here. But here you are!"

But feels a renewed faith in the goodness of God, and a deeply sincere gratitude for life. He wishes he could tell the whole world how he feels, wants to thank everyone who wished him well during the illness, everyone who prayed for his recovery - he knows many people who are strangers. He was praying and completely credits his present well-being to their prayers and his baptism.

"It's a miracle," Pat repeats, "I don't blame you if you don't believe it, because I don't think I believed it, I hadn't seen it with my own eyes."

Snowball sits sedately, waiting for carrot treat to celebrate birthday and Easter, preferring vegetables to sweets at this holiday time.

Have you ever wished a bunny rabbit a Happy Birthday? My name is Snowball, and I'll have my first birthday on April 24. That's the last, last day, that I came to Stow from the Falls Pet Shop.

I was a specially requested birthday gift for a boy who was 11 years old on that day. I made friends easily and soon became a part of the family.

All last spring and summer I spent carefree days hopping round the neighborhood enjoying grass and dandelions. I developed a very bad habit of cuddling under neighbors' cars - it was so cool and I was so comfortable stretched out on garage floors.

But that habit didn't last. Guess someone was afraid I'd be run over by a car, so a screened pen was built and my free wanderings were at an end. I didn't really mind the pen as long as the carrots were long, crisp and plentiful. I was a happy rabbit.

When fall and winter came, even though I have a thick white fur coat, I felt lonely and cold in the garage. I was so glad when the family decided to bring me into the house and make a place for me in the basement.

Now, in the houses I had something nice to look forward to. Every morning my little "Mistress Mary" would carry me upstairs to the kitchen where I'd be placed on a chair where she would open a big white door. Oh, the treats she'd give me - a simple crispy lettuce and shiny carrots - sometimes even toast from the breakfast table. I always stay on the chair and gobble my treats.

Now I know where those special goodies are kept, and when I'm free, I hop straight to that big white door and wait for some. All winter long I've had a soft, easy life. I know that my name is Snowball for when anyone calls me that, I come hopping.

Everyone is talking about springtime and Easter these days. I hope spring is really here at last, and is Easter this next Sunday.

If there are any youngsters around Stow who really think bunnies have anything to do with (cont. on p. 7)

Town Types - The Village Doctor

Frank Green

James Smith Sweeney

The country physician’s story has been often told. I question whether any town has ever had a more colorful type than Stow’s Dr. Sweeney. His dughter, Dolly (Mrs. Byron Loncocy) who was her¬ self plenty interesting, gave me her father’s story.

It starts back in County Antrim, North Ireland, where St.
Paddy started his missionary work.

Dr. Sweeney’s father was born there Aug. 14, 1828. His father’s people were rebels against British tyranny, working actively for Irish freedom. Their property was confiscated, and Dr.’s father, who was only 16, was drafted into the British army.

When the War of 1812 began, this slender, blue-eyed Irish boy was shipped to America to fight against the colonies. He and Dr. Sweeny’d mother’s father both fought, on opposite sides in the battle of Plattsburg. The British army went into win¬ ter camp in Canada. When the drillmaster struck the raw recruit a hard blow on the legs, this quick-tempered youngster slapped him hard in the face.

Some of his friendly comrades got him out of the guardhouse and put him on a horse. He crossed Lake Erie on the ice.

After the war, he married Dolly Brown, the granddaughter of Governor Huntington, third governor of Ohio.

He became a successful physician. His son, J. S. Sweeney was born in Middletown, O. He, too, studied medicine.

Dr. Sweeney, Sr., had a private tutor for his sons, who not only learned reading, writing and arithmetic, but also fencing.

Mrs. Loncocy doesn’t say where her father started his practice, but the Court House record shows he bought, in April, 1863, 14½ acres out of the SW comer of lot 35, Stow Township.

The tavern building was on this lot, about where the Spaght block and Children’s Chapel now stand.

Our Dr. Sweeney was then 35 years old, tall, active, muscular man. His daughter says he ran the tavern for some time. She also says that he kept order there. She says her father was a natural fighter. She tells picturespelly of the fights he quelled by throwing the participants out in the road by the nape of their necks and seats of their pans as unconsciously as throwing a setting hen from her nest.

“Come on, come on, if any of the rest of you want a part”

CENSUS TAKERS ARE BUSY WITH COUNT
Come Mud and Flat Tires — Nothing Stops the Census Taker!
Highly trained census enumerators, 15 women and 1 man, began the tedious house-to-house canvass of the 3745 Atlantic, Silver Lake and Monroe Falls Areas April 1. Under the guidance of the specially trained crew leader, Mrs. Tom Darrow on Darrow Rd., these fifteen women and one man, John Moss, 2044 Samira Rd., refused to be stalled by muddy back roads or flat tires defeat this all-out effort to count noses.

After extensive tests were given at the Census Bureau in Akron, which included interpretive reading, map reading and vocabulary, out of nearly 3000 persons taking the test, 550 were assigned to Summit County, under 28 group leaders.

Thanks to the persons who had their advance report ready when they were enclosed, many calls required less than 10 minutes. About 90% of homes visited and the caller by presenting this report completely filled out.

"Local residents are friendly and courteous," stated Mrs. Fritsch. "Many have offered coffee, cake, nut bread, and in general have opened their homes and have been most cooperative."

"The muddy roads, flat tires, and a few unstable houses have presented minor obstacles, but the job must be completed on or near April 13."

Each census-taker cannot have more than 500 homes to visit, which means a certain speed in covering these homes must be maintained. Every fourth home receives a special, longer form, which is to be filled out privately and mailed directly to the Census Bureau.

Delbert E. Morris, 3986 F. Graham Rd. came to the aid of Mrs. Fritsch when her car developed a flat tire during the supper hour in front of her house on April 6. He completely changed the tire for her.

Working on Silver Lake are Mrs. Donald Cully and Mrs. E. Z. Drummond.

Monroe Falls workers are Mrs. R. A. Walker, Mrs. Edgar Howe, Mrs. Harvey Chaney, Mrs. Frank Likar, and Mrs. E. G. Gaylord.

Slow workers are Mrs. Bar Y. Brandon, Mrs. William F. Hall, Mrs. Fred Werner, Mrs. Sam Nicholls, Mrs. J. R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Barron.

WHERE YOU ARE
You who think "somewhere" is different
And the grass might greener be!
If the stakes were pulled and shifted
Have my deepest sympathy.

You could change a bit of scenery,
You might travel near or far,
But you have yourself to live with
And your thoughts are where you are.

SUMMER PROGRAM

Working one season ahead, Slow Community Council is already planning the Summer Recreation and Welfare, Chairman David Reid states he is in a position to employ a supervisor, maybe a summer boy who is ready to take applications. Last year's supervisor is unable to return, but her assistant will be back.

Qualifications for the job include some recreational experience, and a salary of about $200 per month. Applications should be over 20 years old, have had some recreational experience, and have a car.

The program lasts for 10 weeks, beginning approximately one week after school closes. Five days a week, two at Adell Durbin Park, one at Riverview School, and two at Woodland School, beginning at 12:30 and lasting till 4:30, encompass all ages.

Crafts and games, and a variety of other activities are included for girls and boys of school age.

Only children excluded are boys who are in Slow Boys' Basketball League, also sponsored by Community Council. The feeling is that those boys already have an activity provided directly for them, and the playground program is not large enough to accommodate everybody.

Raid states he will welcome any suggestions or criticisms for bettering the program. He's long been trying to find a place to establish a target range for older boys, but has been unable to find a suitable one. How about a vacant hillside he's not using?

Questions, comments, applications or absent-owners may contact Reid at OV 8-4979, or write him at 3943 Darrow Rd.

LARGES CELEBRATE THIRTY-FOURTH

Lucky for him he had a good singing voice, or Bill Large might have had to think up another scheme for being near the girl he’d decided to marry! Violet was singing in the church choir, so Bill figured joining the choir was a move. They sang in church choirs together after that for almost 30 years.

Memories like this come surging back when “Vl” and Bill Large speak of their 54th wedding anniversary April 19th. Celebration is planned for a later date, when they’ll dine out together. Meanwhile, both of them say they’d do the same thing all over again if they had the chance!

A native of Stow in 1934, Larges have one son, Phil, who is patrolman with Stow Police, and two grandsons. Vi says Bill didn’t carry on with music, she’s delighted that his son Larry is taking drum lessons.

“Music has always been so important to him,” she says, “I’m glad someone in the family is carrying on the interest.”

Bill is in construction business 18 years in Stow, now owns and operates the Stow Fix-It Shop in the Holt Bldg., where practically anything from manure scissors to dressers drawers gets resprayed, and keeps shop for him all of the time. He also uses a saucer, a plate, a prop, and other bits of furniture.

Vi is a member of Stow’s First Christian Church, he a past president of Stow Businessmen Club, and they formerly a professional singer locally. Vi and Bill Large are wished many more long and happy years together by all of Stow.

Mrs. L. T. McLaughlin of W. Kanata Drive, Stow, has returned from Florida. She flew down to meet her sister and brother-in-law, later moved to the Gulf Coast for three weeks, then drove back in two days.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holden, Sr., 6636 West Ardendale, has been confined at Robinson Memorial Hospital, Ravenna, Ohio, for two weeks. Mr. Holden is in traction for complications to his left arm, resulting from a sore of pneumonia.

KITCHEN CORNER

from Summit Co. Agricultural Ext.

Have you counted the number of canned meat items in your favorite food store recently? If not, you’ll probably be amazed at both the number and the variety available. In one store, 135 different packs and tanks, sizes, types — were counted. Canned meats and meat products are convenience items — entirely cooked, boned, seasoned, and ready-to-serve or heat and serve.

Canned meats and other canned foods gain in flavor and our families benefit by better acceptence where we exert our culinary creativity and put our personal mark on the product. We’re not “pushing” corned beef hash but by giving you a variety of ways to change this one product we only show how you can use your own imagination and better use other canned foods through variations.

CORNED-BEEF-HASH RING

2 cans (1-lb size) 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
8 eggs 1 tablespoon fine
1/4 cup salt 1 chopped

Melt butter or margarine in a medium skillet, and add eggs. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until eggs are set. Unmold hash ring onto serving dish, and fill center with eggs.

Sprinkle with chopped watercress or parsley, and serve to 8.

HASH WITH CHEESE TOPPING

1-1/2 cups canned corned-beef hash 3 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish 6 slices bread
6 slices beef 6 large grated potato olives
6 slices mushroom or Swiss cheese

Start oven at 425° F., or hot. Thoroughly mix corned-beef hash, mustard, and horseradish. Cut crusts from bread slices, and spread bread with hash mixture. Chop olives and onion fine, and sprinkle over hash. Top each bread slice with a slice of cheese, and bake on a cookie sheet 10 minutes, or until cheese melts. Serves 6.

I imagine the Future Teachers (PTA’s) can picture themselves in the shoes of Miss Kraus or Mr. Carpenter, who are student-teaching at Stow. Miss Kraus will graduate from Kent State University in June. She is majoring in English and minor in speech, and doing her practice teaching under Mrs. Kaufman.

Mr. Carpenter, an alum of Stow, is also attending Kent State. He is majoring in social studies and will graduate in August. Mr. Carpenter chose Stow because as a student he enjoyed Miss Workman’s classes and now wishes to do his practice teaching under her.

Track season got off to a good start for Stow High as they defeated Twinsburg in their first meet. Standout was big Martin Brandon as he broke school records in the discuss throw and shot put.

Baseball at Stow High

Opening Day games before opening of baseball season, but plans for the teams as follows: Westgate, P and B; Sandercor, P; McCellan, OF; Cocozo, OF; Wilkerson, IB; Kiesa, C; Ingalls, 3B or SS; Nichols, 2B; Gray, SS or 2B; Moore, P.

Class A Ball

Stow may also have a Class A baseball team entered in the Portage County League. H. S. VonGunten and Dale McClellan are trying to find the necessary sponsors.

To sponsor the team would run $706.20; however the players are contributing some of this, and the balance could be divided 16 ways, which would be $31.60 per player.

The team could be called the Stow Merchants, and each of the players would have an individual sponsor with his name on the jersey.

An alternate budget, calling for less complete uniforms, would amount to $27.88 per player.

Any potential sponsor who cannot reach VonGunten or McClellan may contact me through The Stow Press.

Easter, they must be very small - too small to know the true, glorious meaning of Easter as the biggest boys and girls understand it.

But don’t get me wrong - we do love to be called “Easter Bunnies.” It makes us feel really important, and I’ll be most happy to extend special Easter Greetings to all kids in Stow. I hope your baskets are filled with carrots - oh! I mean eggs, and sweet treats.

I’ll take the carrots, thank you!

The Sport Shop Names Manager

Robert "Bob" Miller, new manager of The Sport Shop.

Robert Miller has been named manager of The Sport Shop at Stow-Kent Center. It was announced this week by "Sonny" Klein, owner of the store and one of the same name in Cuyahoga Falls. Miller, a native of Cuyahoga Falls, and graduate of the high school there, spent 1953 and 1954 in Klein's Falls store before four years with the U.S. Air Force. While overseas, he held the position of instructor at a base in England. He returned to the States in 1958 and worked as a certified Public School teacher. Mr. Miller has been named manager of The Sport Shop at Stow-Kent Center.

The Sport Shop at Stow-Kent Center, in addition to being a full-line sporting goods store, also sells complete uniforms for the Senior High School Band and Junior High School Band. This year, the Band will perform at the State Assembly of the Ohio Bandmasters Association, which group provides promotion, publicity and financial aid, for instrumental and uniformed groups in all bands in the Junior High and Senior High Schools. This group, all voluntary, has the annual candy sale at Christmas time and on alternate years sponsors the selling of articles to be used in the bands' uniforms and instruments. Band Parents also handle arrangements for uniforms and instruments for the bands.

Mr. Miller, who is a graduate of Stow High School, has been a long-time friend of the Band and of the Band Parents Association. He has been a member of the Band and has been a member of the Band Parents Association for several years. He is a native of the area and has been active in various community activities. He has been a volunteer at the Band's annual candy sale and has been active in the Band Parents Association.

The Sport Shop at Stow-Kent Center is located at 6557 Milford Road, just across from the Village Park. It is open Mon-Sat 10-9, Sun 10-6. Call 330-995-5555 for more information.
