DAD'S WAILING WALL

In May I paid the Easter corsage,
In June the Mother's Day gift,
I smile as I cancel these tokens off,
Then I preach to the family, on flirt.
So what happens when bills arrive
In July?
There's a charge slip here for a Father's Day tie.

STOW'S LOVELIEST LASSES

Finalists in the contest for Stow's Queen were L. to r., Carol Ferrante, Norma Shirkow (named Crowned), Linda Fairnacchi (chosen Queen), Valerie Cawdill (third place winner). Details and considerations included poise, personality, charm and speech, as well as deportment. Mrs. Vivian Thompson, Mrs. Robert Woodard, Edward Montgomery and Stow Press publisher Mrs. Peg Knight agreed they'd probably never have a more difficult task.

IT'S ALL OVER NOW

by Bob Golden

Secession - this has been a bitterly contested issue since the first petition was filed four long, hectic weeks ago.

When you take this paper from your mail box next Thursday the issue will have been decided. It will have been decided at the polls, and that is as it should be. But as this is being written the two factions, those for and those against, continue to do battle.

In a last ditch stand the secessionist group spearheaded by ex-councilman Lester Sadler, held a public meeting Tuesday, June 21. They called on prominent county officials to explain what might happen if succession is to become a reality.

Chief Deputy Engineer of Summit County Engineer Viem Bremmer said "there would have to be a meeting between township and county officials to determine which roads who would maintain." Summit County Sheriff Bird painted a dreary picture stressing his management control, but said "we will give you the very best service we possibly can if you do succeed."

Carl Coffen, Superintendent of Summit County schools, explained how territorial changes affect school zone district laws. In effect he said that the people in a given district have the right to say how their school zone laws will be set up.

He had no idea where to look for one, and then he thought of the Stow Press classified ads section. He placed an ad in our paper on Thursday and received a call the same day telling him to come and pick up his skunk. The moral of their story - our classified ads get results.

STOW'S QUEEN GRAD

Queen Linda Stow Grad

Linda Fairnacchi, Queen of Stow until next year at this time, was thrilled at the honor she won last Sunday. An eleven-year resident of Stow, she graduated from Stow High in June 1959, and is now at 18, a sophomore at Kent State University, where her name has frequently been listed in the Dean's List. Linda was a cheerleader in her senior year at Stow High. She works part time at the Ensign Savings.

Stow's new queen lives at 3545 Darrow Rd., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fairnacchi, and an older sister and two younger brothers. Her father owns and operates Stow Upholstering Co.

Lemon Carloads for Lemonade

Old Silver Lake July 4th Picnics

For its One...Two...Three and you're up to the tallest glass of lemonade you ever drank. Of course there are a few other 'very special' methods to follow besides this simple formula.

"People just don't realize that lemonade isn't good unless it contains the flavor of the rind. The very best bottled or frozen lemonade has that particular goodness left out because there is no taste of rind," Mr. Oakley Spaght, of Spaght, Covella and Beckley Real Estate Inc., affirms.

Mr. Spaght quenched the thirst desires for as many as 10,000 persons at a time while he was Park Superintendent of the former Silver Lake Park "way back in 1910-1912. Silver Lake Park ranked in its heyday as a summer resort with Euclid Beach

STOW SAFETY SHACKLED

by Bob Golden

The sound of anguished brakes shrieked through the placid night. Seconds later there was a deafening crash as one machine slammed into another. When it was all over one car lay in a broken heap at the foot of a telephone pole and another was rendered incapable of near-future motion.

This was that shock drowsy TV watchers from Stow, Ohio, and shocked sleepers to their feet in the Wetmore Park area one night last week.

People threw on bathrobes, crammed their feet into slippers, and raced to the intersection of Paty Ann Drive and Route 5 where the accident occurred. They got there in time to see one driver crawl from the wreckage of his automobile and murmur reverently, “At least I’m still alive.”

The car was still alive, all right, but he might have been dead. This prompted many Stow residents to ask why such a thing kept happening in that area.

“There ought to be a traffic light there, or stop signs, or something,” they said.

About five weeks ago the Stow Safety Committee said the same thing. They wanted a light in that area, also at other dangerous intersections throughout Stow. They too thought the eight accidents, two of them resulting in personal injury, occurring there since January of this year were uncalled for. They thought that since that area has the third highest accident rate in Stow, something should be done about it.

The Committee invited the State Highway Department to survey the situation and sanction the installation of a traffic light there.

Well, the State Highway boys surveyed the situation, but when they had finished they said a light wasn’t needed. It would just slow traffic, they said. Their decree seems hard to understand. If the traffic could be made to move more slowly there would be fewer accidents, but they won’t sacrifice a light because it would slow traffic.

Stow officials were helpless; they could do nothing without State Highway approval.

There will come a day when State Highway approval won’t be needed for such matters as when Stow becomes a city it will have the power to handle its own traffic problems. Councilman Lawrence Saltis points out.

Last week Councilman Saltis, chairman of the Safety Committee, let me see a traffic safety plan that he and Police Chief Woodard have been working on. This plan features a light near where the State Highway Department said none was needed. It also remedied many of Stow traffic deficiencies. The trouble is, these remedies are only on paper and they don’t keep cars from crashing into telephone poles.

And so there was an accident and a youth said, “at least I’m still alive.” He was lucky; maybe the next guy won’t be.

COUNCIL APPROVES BUDGET

Stow Council held a public hearing on the 1961 Village budget and an ordinance making it legal to strip or remove topsoil from residential or referral areas without a permit from the Village Service Director, June 23.

The budget was approved and will be sent to the Summit County Budget Committees for approval. It consists primarily of $216,772 for the general fund, $51,900 for street construction and $888 for the state highway fund.

Donald Becker of 3499 Edgewood Dr., a member of the audience, asked the financial chairman if the new budget would constitute an additional tax levy. Councilman Compton answered that there will probably be a request for two mills.

The Village officials are “grossly undervalued,” Becker said. He added that he would like to see a higher millage so Village employees could be paid according to what it costs them to live in Stow.

Councilman Kimpton said, “a levy of two mills is all we can hope for because the people are very tax conscious.”

A member of the audience stated that if the topsoil ordinance passed someone ought to stop outsiders from bringing topsoil into Stow and selling it.

The topsoil ordinance was adopted by Council in their regular meeting after the hearings.

Way Back When

by Frank Green

The Schools in Early Stow 2nd Part

Most of the districts were made from 1830-1840. The Stow Corners District No. 3 was one of the largest and most popular. It was 2½ miles north and south and 2 miles east-west. When it was laid out there were 29 families living in it. . . of the town. It was often called the Brick Block School because the house was built of brick, the only one in town not made of logs. Eigh Talcott, another old Fish Creek resident, says there were 3 school houses in his district; the first one on the River Road; the 2nd one on the Kent Road, Route 5; and the brick one. The first two were made of wood. Both he and Mrs. Coffen name several of their teachers. Mr. Talcott went to my father, F. M. Green, in Civil War times and Mary Coffen to Aunt Jane Sturdevant (my Village Schoolmaster). Perhaps I shall write more of her later.

UNDERSTANDING THE FOOD STANDARDS

Have you ever thought how dependent we are upon food standards? You may buy on the basis of price, brand, grade, or by the prettiest label. Regardless of how you make your decision, food standards and grades assure you a product with common characteristics.

Food standards describe foods and are measuring sticks you can use to determine the quantity and quality of ingredients in foods and food products. Standards of identity, quality, and fill of container are the basis types of standards.

The standard of identity is essentially a recipe. It is a list of ingredients that must be present in a given product and the ingredients which may be included at the manufacturer’s option.

These are developed to establish what a given food is, or what you can expect to receive when you ask for a food by its common or usual name. For example, the standard for fruit preserves requires not less than 45 parts of fruit or fruit juice to each 53 parts of sugar. Substandard or low-fruit preserves can be marketed, but must be clearly labeled “imitation.”

The nutritional value of certain foods is guaranteed by identity standards. Enriched flour, rice, macaroni products, fortified oleomargarine are examples where nutrition is an important objective.

Special regulations cover certain dietary foods. The measurement of sugar content in special dietary foods and foods claiming to be low in sodium must declare on the label the amount of sodium present per 100 grams and for each average serving — one-half cup or number of waffles.

Standards of quality establish specifications for such quality factors as tenderness, color, and freedom from defects. If the product does not meet the quality specifications, it must be labeled “Below Standard in Quality,” followed by a statement showing in what respect the product fails to meet the standard, such as “excessively broken” or “excessive peel” and so on.

Standards of quality for agricultural and fishery products are voluntary and based primarily on quality determined by appearance. If a manufacturer or distributors labels the products according to these voluntary standards, the product must meet the standards. Standards of fill of container have been established for some canned fruits and vegetables, tomato products, shell fish and other products that shake down or settle after filling. In general, standards of fill require packages to contain the maximum quantity of food that can be sealed in the container and processed without damaging the food.

FAY GEISTWEITE - GARY JOHNSON WED

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnson, niece Miss Fay Irene Geistweite, are on a motor trip to Tuscon, Arizona and adjoining territory following their marriage June 25 in First Christian Church. Upon their trip of two weeks duration the couple will take up residence at Kiess' Trailer Court, 3560 Orchard Dr., Rev. Theodore Cord officiated at the marriage ceremony.

Mrs. Johnson, given in marriage by her parents, was gowned in white Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. This gown was designed with a basque bodice and Sabrina neckline, embellished with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The long sleeves formed points over the wrists. A very bountiful ballerina skirt fell over crinoline, fashioned with tulle insertions trimmed with lace medallions. The back of the skirt had lace and tulle ruffles to the hemline. Completing the gown was the wedding veil of pure silk bridal illusion with fall from the back of lace and tulle and embroidered with seed pearls. Mrs. Johnson carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Julius Funk served as matron of honor. Miss Betty Geistweite attended her sister as junior bridesmaid. Each wore identical gowns of Nile green Chantilly lace and ermine over taffeta with matching accessories. Each carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and baby's breath.

Robert Geistweite, brother of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were James Cord, Andrew Long, Jr. and Andrew Long, Sr.

Guests numbering upwards of 150 were served in the Social Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Geistweite, 2924 W. 2nd St., Mansfield, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Johnson, Tuscon, Arizona.

Mrs. Johnson, a graduate of Stow High School and Akron Beauty School, is associated with Romon's Beauty Shop in Kent. Mr. Johnson graduated from Tuscon Senior High School and is employed by Highway Products, Kent.

KATHY’S SORRY...

When I went to the 'surprise shower' in my honor...which was scheduled as the meeting of the newly organized “Stow Mothers of Twins” and wrote up this story I said there were no mothers of twins in the room. But there was...One. A Mrs. W. O. McCann, Meadowbrook Blvd., who is the mother of Billy and Betsy, who will soon observe a 16th (7) birthday. “Scuse me, Mrs. McCann.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Higgins, Meadowbrook Blvd., took time off from their house cleaning and went to visit Mrs. Higgins’ family in Cincinnati, O.

Stork Club

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stout, Ribbardi Dr., have made the total number of their children a nice round '6' with the arrival of their new daughter, Annietta Marie, June 17. Little Annette Marie weighed in at 7 lb. 10 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Lu Mattin, Ada line Dr. (our own Kathy, Society Editor) have named their 6th child, Joseph Paul (Joey) who was born recently in City Hospital.

Miss Nan Godfrey, daughter of Mrs. Frank Godfrey, Darrow Rd., left June 26 to spend a month in Danville, Ky., to attend Summer Stock Drama Camp. This is the spot where “Raintree Country” was filmed.

Editor’s note: Danville, Ky., may be the spot where “Raintree Country” was filmed. It holds another significance for your Editor. While enroute to Lake Junaluska, North Carolina, last summer to attend the National Methodist Writers’ Conference via the Southern Railway I suffered extreme physical discomfort. It was at Danville that the train unloaded the diner and I was unable to get a cup of coffee either late at night or for a night-cap or early in the morning until 10:00 a.m. when enroute home I was able to get coffee on the Terminal at Cincinnati, Ohio. Never again...a group of friends from my church had a surprise party on me and gave me a portable coffee maker. Next time I go through Danville...I shall thumb my nose at all Danvillettes and the Southern Railway. I expect to plug in my coffee maker in the socket made for a man’s razor.

COMMUNITY CHURCH YOUTH PLAN ACTIVE SUMMER

Stow Community Church Youth Groups, the Junior Pilgrim Fellowship and the High School Group, are actively engaged in a continuing summer program. Junior Pilgrim Fellowship made a trip to Thompson Products Museum, June 19. Plans have been made for this group to have a camp out later this summer.

High School Group members enjoyed a swimming party at Silver Springs, June 19. There will be another social time for this group June 26.

First step in the One, Two, Red! The formula was that one man would wash lemons. The second man would pare the lemon around and around, spiral fashion, but leave the rind on the lemon. The third man would then accept a bucket of lemons that were so pared. He would add 2 lbs. of sugar for every dozen lemons. In this production line this same bucket would then be passed to a third man who would add 3 gallons of water to the 1 dozen lemons and the 2 lbs. of sugar.

When the lemons had been pared and the sugar added it was the job of the man with the lemon and sugar mixture to apply a stomping pressure with a 4' stomper that had a rounded bottom similar to an oxtail potato masher.

Sacred well water was used. At the former entrance of the Park was a huge water tower which was filled by an electric motor. This was situated at the high point of the Lake area. Pipe spigots were placed at convenient spots around the grounds. Groups of lemonade makers would be placed near these spigots so that the water might be drawn as the lemonade was made. All this mixture would then be placed into 30 gallon barrels.

Even with such an early start... even with this production line... even with the time period of 20 minutes to make a barrel... these men would be busy all day long filling and selling these barrels. No one thought it to be a good idea; the lemonade was so good! Made with lemon rinds only as you know.
