Board Works On New Schools, Funds
Special Vote On Hi Funds
Stow School Board unanimously passed a resolution accepting interest free aid in the amount of $646,877 to help construct Stow Lakeview Elementary School into a junior high school, which is estimated will cost $664,587 total. This leaves school district residents with $152,587 for their contributions.

SPECIAL VOTING DATE
The Board set Tuesday, Dec. 13, for the date of a special election for the purpose of passing the necessary bond issue to raise the district's share. Voting will take place at the regular polling places, those in the district, but living outside Stow (Northeast, Hudson and other places), and students attending Stow schools will vote at the nearest polling place. There will be no special voting for Kent residents, except for Kent residents, who must vote within their own communities.

HOW MUCH WOULD WE PAY?
State Aid money must be repaid to the state, so the issue will be presented as a 1.3 mill levy (which taken care of the residents' share of the total) plus a .5 mill levy (this pays back the state aid money), totaling 1.8 mills on each $1,000 property valuation. In other words, the owner of property valued at $5,000 would pay $18.00 per year, according to P. J. Van Brunt, Executive Head of Stow Schools.

A NEW GYM - NO AUDITORIUM
Project approved by the State Board includes an addition of 18 classrooms to the present Lakeview School and a new gymnasium. The auditorium contains in the original request was a one-story building, but when state aid is granted, the state approves construction, specifications and bids on the building.

Stow's rising property evaluation means that the cost of school building funds higher than estimated a few months ago.

Ohio Statehouse Conference
Mrs. William Watson of Riverview PTA asked the Board's cooperation in supplying information, answering questions, and attending as many meetings as possible.

A member Becker said, "If a group in our district enhance, we should give them any help we can." He showed pleasure at larger public attendance at board meetings recently, and also means that more people are sharing the burden.

The actual cost of building may be higher, or lower, but whichever way it goes, Stow's share is now a fixed amount, and the state will pay the balance, whether it be more or less. Therefore, the .5 mill share of the levy would cease when the state had been repaid part of its expense - about 8 years, Van Brunt estimated.

The levy will probably be set up to be completely paid in 21-23 years.

MORE TO COME
Long before that time residents will be asked to vote further on bond issues for more schools, as Van Brunt predicts bulges, based on past and present enrollments, into needing more high school rooms. And in the fall of 1963, another elementary school by fall of 1964.

The Board appointed Mrs. Jay Wingdurs as their representative to Stow Library Board, representing Mrs. E. J. Mackey, to serve Mrs. Mackey's unexpired term to 1965.

Fish Creek's Future - Will It Be A Junior High?
A surprise to the visitors at Stow School Board's Oct. 19 meeting, and to all Stow residents was the special meeting with the board member, Mrs. Jack Noll, was the fact that Fish Creek School, voted for last April as an elementary school, was being planned as a possible future converted junior high. As the architect, Boyd Huff, showed the board the plans, he explained to them that features had been added or revised to make such a conversion easier and less costly.

When Mrs. Noll asked when the construction of the school was to be made, Board President Whalen said it was the result of the Tri CONFERENCE Planning Committee advice. She said she had been under the impression conversion was impractical, and Executive Head Van Brunt answered that it was only impractical if not planned in advance.

Board Member Don Becker added that conversion was definitely, might take some time in the future - probably not less than 10 years, maybe longer.

Advertising for bids on the Fish Creek School will begin in January, beginning Nov. 1, to be opened Nov. 30. Mr. Huff said planning called for one completed wing by Aug. 5, the second by Aug. 25, 1961.

Meanwhile, inactive funds raised by the bond issue for the school are to be invested at 5%, as follows: $150,000 for not less than 90 days, $100,000 for not less than 12 months, $200,000 for not less than 9 months, $50,000 for not less than 6 months, with the Central National Bank of Cleveland. These investments will yield $5,000 which may be placed in the building fund if so voted by the board.

Alliance Church Opens Sunday
Organized just over a year, Stow Alliance Church opens the first unit of its church building on the corner of Stow Ave. and Amadale Rd., Sunday, October 26.

At 10:30 a.m. the raising of the American flag will begin the ceremonies. The pledge will be followed by the unrolling of the emblem, "The Cross Penetrating the World", led by Ted Shuman. After a presentation of the Bible and Christian Workers Testament, a history of the fellowship will be read, with Harold Howland in charge. Vern Storlows will unveil the emblem stone signifying the four-fold Gospel, after which the keys will be presented by Contradance Chairwoman, E. Glenn Fauss, chairman of the building Committee.

According to The Rev. G. W. Busse, pastor, the congregation and visitors will then proceed to the building's interior for its first services, including a sermon by The Rev. David Clark, superintendent of the Central District of the Church of the Brethren.

At 3:00 p.m. all area Alliance pastors and congregations are invited to a special worship service at which The Rev. Paul Kenyon of Brown St. Christian and Missionary Alliance Church will speak. Music will be furnished by the Laymen's concert for Missions, Action Choir Quartet.

Other Churches Join For Community Sing-ahead - Community Sing-spiration will be held - an annual event sponsored by the Central District Lay Association, Community Church, St. Stephens Lutheran Church, and United Presbyterian Church of Stow.

After the singing Harold Rostland will show pictures of the building's development.

The building is the first unit of a new building for the church. It contains seven classrooms and a chapel seating 225. The church work building was donated by fellowship group. Elmer Gursin is the architect.

School Employees Convention
The Northeast District of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees will hold their annual convention on October 20, 21 at Parma Senior High School.

The main speaker for this meeting will be Mrs. C. E. H. H. Hall, rector of the Episcopal Church in East Cleveland.

"IMPULSE"

I had an irresistible impulse the other afternoon, when I heard the Slow High band practicing, to dance to the "bunny hop" right along with them till I remembered that I have neighbors who probably think I'd been eating some of Snowball's pellets if they saw me hopping around the backyard. (Snowball's our pet rabbit.) Anyway it's this kind of hopping tune that's hard to resist.

Two autumn holiday fishing trips to Lake Erie's shores netted Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews, Adaline Dr., over 800 Perch -- Many of their neighbors and friends enjoy a delicious fish supper to prove this fish story.

In the "sigh of relief" dept. When a four-year-old's story about a big rattlesnake on the kitchen stove proved out to be a funny caterpillar! When that red stuff on a six-year-old's face turned out to be jam instead of blood!

Larry Heini, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Heini, 1773 Welmore left Stow Lake to enter the Maryknoll Brothers Novitiate at Brookline, Mass., where he plans to study to become a Maryknoll Brother. Larry graduated from Hoban High School, June 1899.

It's not too early to put a ring around the date, Nov. 12, of Sunday, Nov. 13, for those two days will be set aside for Stow Boys Baseball League Pancake Breakfast, to be held at Stow High School. Proceeds will be used to finance additional equipment for Little League teams and to help maintain a Pony League for boys 14 to 18, and to keep up the baseball fields for next summer.

An advance ticket sale will be conducted door-to-door by the baseball players working in teams. All Stowites 6 and under will eat pancakes free; youngsters 6-14 will pay 50¢, and adults tickets will be $1.

PLAYERS "DRESS UP"

Stow Players Inc. will "dress up" like characters from the Little Rascals Comic Strip for their Halloween Party to be held in the players' room of Stow High. On Nov. 13 at 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Donald Powell, entertainment chairman, will plan the festivities.

CULTURE CLUB SEES STYLES

Stow Culture Club plans a guest speaking for Nov. 3 at 1:30 at the Christian Youth Center. Those present will see a short film, "Fall Fashions," showing gowns from Lilac Bee Shops. Members who will be models are Misses A. Joyce Lewis, Catherine S. L. E. Hutchinson, Kay Harsch, Ben Taylor, H. P. Lamb, Walter DePew, R. L. Winders, Joseph Goup, Russel Gray, P. S. Ingalls, and M. D. Russell.

The style show will be under the direction of Mrs. Richard Miller, and also will be the commentator.

BULLDOGS TIE DEVILS
The Stow Bulldogs and the Tallmadge Blue Devils fought to an 8-8 tie last Friday night to remain in deadlock for the cellar of the league.

With less than one minute left in the second quarter, Stow's offense took possession of the ball on their 20-yard line. With four seconds remaining, Korn made a 25-yard pass to end Ryan, who lateraled to halfback Sandercox, who made a spectacular one-handed catch with his back to the ground. Stow didn't give Tallmadge their third touchdown of the season. Sandercocx also scored the extra point on a run to give Stow an 8-0 lead at halftime.

During the third quarter, the two teams once again fought even with neither scoring. Tallmadge managed to click on a 40-yard pass and lateral to run the score at 8-8 in the fourth quarter.

Coming back strongly, Stow didn't have sufficient time, as the bulldogs were on the Blue Devils' 20-yard line at the final gun.

This week's game will be on Thursday (tonight) instead of Friday. If the teams are even, it will be the bulldogs' third home game, against Kent State High.

Cross - Currents

(Ed. note: We are happy to add Stowite Bob Butler's thoughts and opinions on a variety of subjects to our columns, though such addition does not necessarily mean we agree with him in all cases. We invite comments through signed letters, which we will print with permission of the writers.)

By Robert L. Butler

Recently we noted that a prominent national organization of churchmen criticized the entertainment media of T.V., radio, and motion pictures as having a "pathological preoccupation with sex and violence." To remedy this situation they recommended closer governmental supervision of these media.

We certainly concur with the critics, though we must add that these very same churchmen might well examine their own skirts to determine the role they have played in the motivation of this preoccupation. A healthy attitude in this area took hundreds of years to generate and was opposed rather than aided by the doctrine of these groups.

However, that which concerns us, is the tendency to call upon the government to "correct" such moral problems, as well as any other social and economic problems, through legislation. This tendency has led to more and more government becoming more and more expensive with less and less moral responsibility on the part of the individual.

An effective moral education for the individual cannot consist of a set of prohibitions telling the individual what he may not do. The truly effective education lays a firm foundation or basis for moral decision and then assumes the individual has enough stature to make the "right" decision. Evil cannot be swept under the community or national carpet because we do not attribute enough "guilt" or "brains" to the individual to make the "right" decision. It is noteworthy that this group of churchmen feel compelled to ask for governmental action to supplement those moral standards which are basic to church doctrine.

And finally, if we are to maintain individual integrity, we must look with extreme suspicion at any government, local through national, which tries to regulate to a greater and greater degree the life and activities of the individual.
