MINISTERS' COLUMN

How then, what are ethics? My reference book defines the code thus: Ethics, the science of human duty. The basic principles of right action. The art of living together. A standard of morals, character and behavior established by a race or nation.

Now then, if one's actions conform strictly to prescribed rules laid down for the welfare of human society, that is being ethical. Whereas, if one swerves from the prescribed course and deliberately violates the rules of life's game, that is unethical. For example, to wear a suit of tights at the swimming beach is perfectly ethical, to wear the same dress on the city streets would be unethical.

We have coined many synonyms very appropriate for the words, ethical and unethical. In automobiling—under the word, ethical, we put the words, considerate, careful, sane. With the term unethical we write road hog, fool, careless. When feverishly anxious to nose from the parking ground onto the highway and there is a solid string of cars a block long to encounter and when a considerate driver holds a moment allowing you to line in, well, that is ethical. When a car passes you whizzing by at fifty miles an hour, swings directly ahead of you and leisurely trails in a driveway forcing you to screech on the brakes and your heart comes up in your throat, well, that is unethical. There is ethics in business, also much that is unethical. A few good berries on the top of the measure while the under ones are wilted and about to perish, is unethical. Fruit good to the bottom, that is ethical.

Every avenue of human endeavor has a balance, ethics. From the simplest game among the kiddies up to the mighty doings of a nation’s lawmakers. Animals, birds and fishes all follow in the school of ethics. Watch the black crow on the far flung branch of the tallest tree while forty birds are feeding in the field, if the black crow on the tree fails to warn of danger its mates immediately replace its leadership, here is displayed a strict code of ethics.

In our church life when true blue, noble manhood and womanhood dominates, when chivalry rises to the top, when we advance our tasks in honor preferring one another, when play and spirit and love is the battery snapping life into every field of our endeavor, then it is that we are carried out and on by the mighty wave, called ethics.

Christian ethics is to be a lady or gentleman carrying on by divine guidance for the glory of God and the good of man.

Many were absent BUT there were one hundred seventy-six present at Bible school Sunday and a year ago there were ninety. Increasing our attendance proportionately the attendance a year from now should be three hundred forty-four and nine sixteenth persons, two years from now—figure it out for yourself.

At the close of Bible School last Sunday W. V. Smith, though he claims not to like to talk about the ladies spoke a few good words for Naomi—a woman of faith and courage.

How many people today live the kind of a home life that would inspire a statement from one of our "in-laws" such as the classic profession of love and devotion on which Ruth made to Naomi. Read it: "Interest me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God: Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also, if ought but death part thee and me."
