QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What must we do to have the great church the minister talks about?

Why be content with anything less than a great church? A great church commands respect and creates a field of human souls, indicative of a mighty harvest. It's not hard to have a great church, just want it. Want it more than Sunday golf, more than Saturday night dance and cards, more than Sunday visiting, more than ice cream and chewing gum, more than Sunday headaches and cold indifference. Want it enough to come early, to take a front seat, to bring a friend, to boost by a joyous life, by a bit of personal missionary work through the week, by fervent prayer. Want the church enough to seek a new anointing for yourself, a new experience, a new contact with God for the good of your own soul. Want the great church enough to be personally interested and to team together for the goal.

Why do some churches use the word "debts," while others use "trespasses" in reciting the Lord's prayer?

In the King James, or Authorized Version, Matthew 6 and Luke II, the two places where the Lord's prayer is found, the word "debts" is used. "Debts" is therefore the bible word, while "trespasses" is found in the Book of Common Prayer, as compiled by the Episcopal church. The change from "debts" to "trespasses" was made for the reason that the word, "debt" doesn't embrace the meaning as it originally did, and the word "trespass," in their judgment, conveys more truly the original meaning. This, however, is a disputed point, hence some churches say "debts," the bible way, others say "trespasses," Book of Common Prayer.

Attended this year.

Friday—Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Stein and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Monteith will leave for a visit in Kentucky. They will return Sunday night.

Mrs. Daisy K. Wetmore, 114 West Kent road, announces that she would be pleased to interview anyone contemplating taking piano lessons.

Finally, the steps at the church have been fixed, the glass is in the door, the gutters have been repaired and yet—the minister says there is more to be fixed—Now just what could be mean?

One week ago Saturday and Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Buchanan took an interesting 800 mile trip through West Virginia. Mr. Buchanan reports that roads in some places in West Virginia are worse than they used to be ten and fifteen years ago.

Mr. Frank Ham's father and mother and Gordon Ham his brother from Florida are visiting with him this week.

Attendance: Two hundred fifty five persons at Bible School last Sunday, quite unusual, but let us make it usual.

Some of the details of that attendance are as follows: Men's Bible class, 28; Will Shaffer's Bible class, 38; Mrs. Monteith's Primary department, 51; Ladies' Bible class, 62.

And would you believe it, the ladies could not get into their regular class room but had to adjourn to the main church auditorium. We need a new ladies class room.

STOW DAIRY BASEBALL TEAM TOWNSHIP CHAMPS

Demonstrating the superiority of milk-fed ball-players over those who get their vitamins from either raw meat, cod liver oil, or shoe leather and clean clothes, "Al" Stein recently lead his braves to final victory in the Stow Business Men's Baseball League series, defeating "Chet" Holt's warriors whom it is rumored were considerably peppep up before each game by consuming huge quantities of cod-liver oil. However, we must now conclude that milk-fed ball players are best probably for the reason that Stow Dairy gets its milk from contented cows while Stow Drug—well—cod liver oil under certain circumstances is OK but more than likely the poor fish who supplied Chet Holt's warriors with their vitamins were far from being content, at least, when the oil was extracted.

To get down to the cold, cruel facts of the case, the Stow Business Men's Baseball league this year consisted of teams from

KNIGHT'S SERVICE
FISHER MEATS
STOW DRUG
STOW DAIRY

As the Sports Editor of this paper now understands it, there were two halves to be played in this series. Stow Dairy won the first half by taking all three games. The second half was a tie, Stow Drug and Stow Dairy each having won two games. Stow Drug won the play-off game and then as winners of the second half Stow Drug clashed again with Stow Dairy at which time the cod-liver oilers went down in defeat before the onslaught of the mighty milk-fed.

Therefore, accordingly and so forth, we conclude—milk as a producer of energy and skill on the ball field is much superior to cod liver oil, meat, or old shoes and dirty clothes.
