MINISTER'S COLUMN

"I but it's nice to get up in the morning at four or five or six o'clock, but it's nicer to lie in your bed," so say legends of the race.

Bed- Yes. Plenty of people that indulge in beauty sleep till midday. Folk that look with scorn on the unfortunate one who must be up and doing, more power to you, my friend,- for me, let me indulge in my whim, namely, to rise early in the morning.

You fellows that tarry long in the bed and sleep after the sun has set a good and wholesome example of rising, it is you for whom I feel sorry and to whom I now speak in confidence.

I am fond of getting up in the morning. One gets a better start for the day. Yesterday night the books were closed, budget balanced, problems forgotten or shelved, till kindly sleep repaired the tired feelings, put new energy into the human machine and morning drew aside the curtains of the night and bade us start again.

I like to get out just when the mist is lifting, when lights from the milkman's cart are twinkling down the avenue. One can skip along as in the olden days. No one pays much attention to your skipping along in the early morning, they probably think you are trying to catch a street car or make a bus. Yes, there is an intoxication in the morning air, one can romp and run with the dog, just lives again their yesterdays, they are young once more.

I am sure the old proverbs granddad used to quote are timely, 'Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." Don't you remember they told us that it was the early bird that gets the worm, of course it's not everyone that is going fishing, however, the symbolism is excellent.

If you are going on a trip, start in the early morning, the day is before you, if you break down, you have daylight. If you have a task before you tackle it in the morning, you are then at your best. Pure air, good light and that, most precious jewel called day is at your command.

GEO. M. HULME, Minister

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Where is the Ark of the Covenant located at this present time, and are the tables of stone with it, or are they in existence today?

Since the destruction of Jerusalem about A. D. 40 by the Romans much of the history relative to the Ark of the Covenant is in obscurity. However, it is claimed by the Ethiopians that the Ark and its contents was removed from the sacred city of Jerusalem by the son of Solomon, whose mother was the Queen of Sheba, the Queen of the Ethiopians. It is tradition that the Ark was placed in the Temple of Aksum, the sacred city of Ethiopians, the city of the coronation of her kings and rulers. The city of Aksum was one of the first cities to fall by the recent invasion of invaders by being buried near the sacred city of Aksum.

Probably no antique on earth is so much coveted as the Ark of the Covenant.

Is cremation against the teaching of the Bible?

There is no teaching in the Bible relative to cremation. Neither is there any Jewish custom or practice corresponding exactly with cremation. The Jews and Romans were much given to preserve their dead, their custom was to bury their dead rather than reduce to ashes by fire. Burial was a matter of piety. Their embalming was very wonderful, it preserved the body for hundreds and sometimes thousands of years. This was especially true of the Egyptians. With the ancient Greeks it was customary to cremate the dead. According to the Mosaic law burning was reserved either for the living, who had been found guilty of un-natural sins (Lev. 20:40 21:9) or for those who had died under a curse (Josh. 7:25).

—ANNOUNCEMENTS—

Things which you should remember about next Sunday are, first—it is Communion Sunday; second, an opportunity will be given to join the Church; third, a special collection will be lifted (how do you like that word?) to help pay off that old debt, and fourth, there will be evening services at 7:30 P. M. at which time the Mens Chorus and others will help Rev. Hulme with the program. And to the Young People we would say do not forget the Christian Endeavor Services at 6:30 P. M.

CHURCH NIGHT

Since it has been such a long time since the good folks of Stow Community Church have felt they had time for a Church Business Meeting, and furthermore because it is a meeting of great importance, would it not be a good plan to have a church night dinner at 6:30 P. M. Friday, Dec. 6, 1935 before the business meeting which convenes at 7:30 P. M. This is the regular yearly meeting. No member of Community Church should stay away. There is important business to transact. Will Smith tell us that the Church roll will be revised; there will be an election of officers for the year 1936—and there are other matters to be discussed. Officers of the Church and all church organizations should have WRITTEN REPORTS to file with the Clerk.
