MINISTERS COLUMN

PROFANITY

A man in the long ago stood aside one day and took stock of himself, shame covered his head, humiliation withered his spirit. He cried aloud, “Alas, I am undone, I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips.” From henceforth, the man purged of his curse, rose to the exalted post of a major prophet.

Come, now, let us reason together, what is there to be gained by being profane? Is your English more forceful because you employ profanity? Is it the mark of super-scholarship? Does it give evidence of good breeding? You admit it doesn't sound quite proper in Church, is it proper or becoming to employ indecent and vicious words before mother or father or sweetheart or a superior? Isn't your profanity a habit, a dirty low one, associated with the alley, the slum, the liar, the thief, the degenerate? Hasn't profanity come up from the Pit, no one claims that profanity descended from above. Honestly, now, doesn't profanity hang out in a bad crowd?

Profanity is shocking because it is wicked, it trails the name of the Almighty in every low, vulgar whim of the underworld. However, it is more shocking because it is dirty, it savors of filth, it is disgusting to decent folk.

Swearing is weakness, it means you don't know how to talk, it is a op of men never swear, men like Lincoln, Napoleon, Robert E. Lee, Gladstone, and a legend of the most illustrious names of the human race, they abhorred profanity.

Yes, I am aware that girls swear, women swear, men and boys swear. I am aware that profanity has invaded society, that it stalks the streets, swaggers through offices, crosses the stage, pokes it offensive nose into all sorts of assemblies, enters without apology into the home.

Profanity, like bad breath and coarse morals, insists that one should bear its insulting, its debasing utterances as though it savored of some element of helpfulness necessary for the advancement of the human race.

Profanity, I brand it as brutal, cruel, unclean. It keeps bad company, it is offensive. Quit it, it is not big or manly, no magnanimity there, it exposes your weakness, your helplessness. You neither enhance yourself or your cause by employing profanity. Rise above profanity, be decent, have clean lips. Shame on this low, indecent habit that bespeaks the college campus, that demoralizes little children, that stalks like a braggart to the very doors of Church, that sneers, mocks, taunts and defies.

If there be such a creature as the Devil and if there be such a place as the bottomless pit, then I am persuaded that this thing called profanity has come up from the

Rev. Hulme Sermon Subject:-Joshua 1 - 5
Now, in a final summary, if profanity would be frowned upon at a coronation, considered undesirable at an inaugural, not tolerated at a state occasion, considered offensive in halls of congress or parliament; if it would be ill advised in literature as persuasive of the deepest joy, or expressive of the fine arts; if profanity helps not in devotion, or song, or when one seeks guidance in quietness and from the Unseen; if propriety, decency and one’s better self combine to outlaw the curse, then, I say, shake it off, it’s filthy; cast it back from whence it came.

MEN’S BIBLE CLASS

The subject of our lesson for next Sunday is “Jesus Exalted.” After Jesus arose from the dead he appeared several times at different places to prove that he was the son of God and had power over death. He appeared first to Mary Magdalene in the garden. Then on the first day of the following week he walked and talked with Cleopas and another disciple as they went to Emmaus, a village seven miles from Jerusalem. Upon their arrival there, he ate with them at their invitation; revealed himself to them and vanished. They returned joyfully that same night to Jerusalem and told the other disciples of their experience. While they talked Jesus appeared in the room. The events of this appearance you will find recorded in the verses of our lesson. (Luke 24: 36-49).

Thomas was not with the disciples when Jesus made this appearance and he doubted the story the other disciples excitedly told. Consequently in order to convince Thomas, Jesus appeared to the group a second time, eight days later, when Thomas was present. He told him to touch him and to thrust his hand into his wounded side because Thomas had declared he would never believe until he did. However, when Jesus spoke to him he was convinced beyond all doubt and believed immediately.

Later Peter suggested a fishing trip and took Jesus, John, Thomas and Nathaniel with him. After an all night vigil, discouraged because they had caught nothing, Jesus appeared on the shore and called to them to cast their net on the other side of the boat. When they did, they caught one hundred and fifty-three fishes and Jesus ate breakfast with the party on the banks of the Sea of Galilee.

Forty days after he arose from the dead he appeared to his disciples in Jerusalem and commanded them to wait there until the Holy Spirit should descend upon them. He then led them out to Bethany, blessed them with outstretched hands and ascended into Heaven out of their sight. Immediately two angels appeared in white apparel and said, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into Heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into Heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into Heaven." Reference Acts 1:10-11.

chorus from the Primary Department, last Sunday was the first time we have had our new platform in the Community Church auditorium filled. Six hundred and twenty-five attended Bible School last Sunday. Sounds nice? But to explain, that number includes all churches in Stow Township. The Graham Rd. Baptist church reports an attendance of 101. We hear that the Church of Christ had an attendance of 318, while 206 were present at the Community Church Bible School. Let us run the total attendance up to a thousand before the year is finished.

Here is something. Mrs. Neugebauer sat up all of last Saturday night and Sunday morning in order to finish making the two or three dozen white capes used by the Junior Choir last Sunday. She deserves much credit and praise for their appearance and performance.
