LIFE IS SO VERY, VERY INTERESTING

Every minute of time and every step of the way is charmed with interest. It's like a fairyland, better, it's a mighty reality of unfolding thrills.

I just can't wait till the sun comes up, one should, ordinarily, let the sun set the example, but I can't wait, so I get up.

First, life is so interesting, time is so precious and a day affords so many opportunities, so I am out when the first light streaks across the sky. People say they have no relish for breakfast, I have. Twenty years ago I was obliged to tease my appetite a bit to eat anything in the morning, but so now. I can scarcely wait, if I were a horse I would paw the manger, if I were a dog I would bark, but being a man I put aside the soap, towel and shaving tools as quickly as possible. Life is so interesting you know and I always enjoy a hearty meal in the early morning hour. That is as it should be, for the day is at hand, there is much to be done and the machinery of the human body needs fuel.

After breakfast I can scarcely get into town quick enough to read the morning paper. I read fast for the mail-man will soon overtake me, the mail must be attended to at once, every piece of mail he brings, statements or otherwise, interests me. The calls on the telephone, appointments, obligations, buying, ordering, meeting people, I am trying to clear the docket by noon, for it's great to enjoy the lunch hour.

A dime's worth of vegetable soup and a cup of coffee and a salad, that's quite a treat for a humble man. I can hardly wait till I have it over with, for life is interesting.

The afternoon program is full, to care for each circumstance as it comes along, to look forward to dinner, the evening meal, a trip home. It's great to enjoy again the comforts of home, the day is done, to put one's feet under the table, that's a real treat, but it's still more interesting to push aside the dishes, read the evening paper. That done and the climax of the whole day is to land in the study among the books.

Life is so interesting. Here I work and think and plan until I find myself sleepy. I just haven't had time enough, couldn't possibly accomplish the many things I planned for at the gray of the early dawn. Now I must surrender to kindly sleep, every care is laid aside, I carry no worries to bed. I read a few words from the Bible, I say a prayer, so with a sincere hope that morning may soon dawn, I fall asleep.

Yes, life is very, very interesting.

CONCERT

On Thursday evening of last week the Akron Civic Orchestra, a Federal Music Project of the Works Progress Administration presented a free concert of splendid music in the Community Church auditorium at Stow. That this concert was not well attended reflects only on the lack of musical appreciation by Stow people (or perchance poor promotion) for, in the days of the old Chautauqua such a program by such artists would have cost the promoters from five hundred to a thousand or more dollars, tickets would have been sold to several hundred people and the house would have been packed. But today many people think that if a thing is free it is not worth while. However charge a dollar and a half admission and they will be there.

To Mr. Kurinsky, director of such musical projects in northern Ohio, much credit should be given for developing such a splendid orchestra, and, to Mr. Kurinsky and his men our thanks for a splendid concert is extended, also our sincere regrets for the small audience.

CHRISTIAN ACTION
The Christian Action group met last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. B. H. Carpenter who is moving to Mansfield soon. On account of the revival meetings this week at Community Church no Friday night Christian Action prayer meeting will be held. Next Friday evening, January 14th, the group will meet at the Van Dillen home in Akron. Those in Stow who desire to attend this meeting and need transportation should call Mr. Lawson.

The Summit County Horticultural Society meet January 12th at the County Home.

The Darrow Street Grange will meet this Saturday evening, January 8th, in the Grange Hall at Darrowville. The Juveniles will furnish the program.

Deficit
In spite of our best efforts we were unable to clear up the affairs of the Community Church News for the year 1937, so as not to show a deficit. It was the desire of the Editor that our finances might be in better shape. At the last church night business meeting we indicated that it would be a desirable thing to have some capital on which to operate. Bills could be paid more promptly. Capital would have enabled us to purchase a supply of paper at a considerable saving. The price of that necessity increased twenty per cent January 1st.

The opportunity to save on the purchase of paper has passed. You are asked to notice the deficit and remember what the Editor said at the last church night meeting. Good intentions are appreciated but good intentions only, will not run this paper. It takes work. It takes cash. No cash, no paper.

Ladies Attention: Remember the Tuesday afternoon prayer meetings held at the home of Mrs. Dunn, 180 Williamson road. The time is 2:00 p.m. each Tuesday.

The River Road folks held a New Years Eve party at the home of C. V. Cross. Wonder if they had ice cream so Lester North could enjoy himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nichols and Mr. Sam Nichols of Medina, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Livingston of Tallmadge and their families spent New Years Day at the home of Ralph R. Nichols, Baumberger road.

A baby boy was born Friday, December 31st, 1937, to Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Walton of 186 Oak road. When this young man reaches the party age he will be able to celebrate New Years Eve and his birthday at the same time.

There may have been others but as far as we could tell birthdays celebrated at Bible School last Sunday were those of Mrs. C. E. McColgan, Mrs. B. B. Minedard, Miss Annabelle Hardy and Cozettee Mulligan.

New Years resolutions for many must have included a resolve to attend Bible School. Last Sunday our total attendance was two hundred and fifty-four. Of this number fifty-one were present in the Men's Bible Class. The men won the banner.

Mrs. Lillian Hagelbarger of Silver Lake entertained the Lodge family on New Years Day. Besides the Lodges of Silver Lake other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lodge from Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lodge and daughter of Cleveland and Mrs. Daisy Wolcott and son Henry of Kent.
